

Frank Belknap Long

Frank Belknap Long (April 27, 1901 - January 3, 1994) was a prolific American storyteller and poet. He wrote fantasy, horror, science fiction, gothic novels, comic books, and nonfiction. Although his writing career spanned seven decades, he is best known for his horror and science fiction stories, including his contribution to the Cthulhu Myths.

FIRST WRITING

In 1923, at the age of 22, he sold his first story, The Desert Lich, to the famous pulp magazine Weird Tales. Over the course of forty years he would often contribute to this type of pulp magazine (he also contributed to Astounding Science Fiction), where he also published non-fiction articles. His first book, A Man from Genoa and Other Poems, was published in 1926.

WORKS

- The Horror from the Hills (1931)
- The Hounds of Tindalos (1946)
- Woman from Another Planet (1960)
- Mars is My Destination (1962)
- Howard Phillips Lovecraft: Dreamer on the Nightside (1975)
- The Golden Age of Weird Fiction: Frank Belknap Long (Vol. 1)
- The Golden Age of Weird Fiction: Frank Belknap Long (Vol. 2) (2016)

The science fiction author Ray Bradbury proclaimed in his memoirs: Science fiction in the USA cannot be understood without the contribution of Frank Belknap Long.

Long was part of the so-called Lovecraft circle from its beginnings, with Robert Bloch, August Derleth, Robert E. Long, Robert E. Long and Robert Bloch.

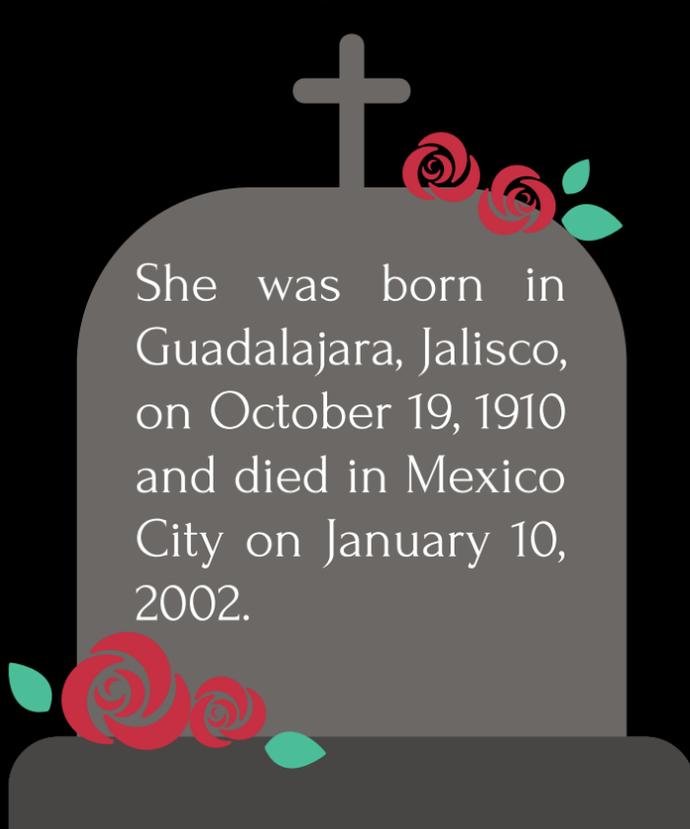

The story is about a pack of filthy extraterrestrial beasts "emerging through strange angles and dark niches from a place of non-Euclidean geometry that predates the night of time."

Throughout the 1950s, he worked as an associate editor for Satellite Science Fiction, Short Story and Mike Shayne's Mystery Magazine. With the decline of pulp magazines, he began writing science fiction and gothic novels under the pseudonyms Lyda Belknap Long (his wife's name) and Leslie Northern.

He also published anthologies of his short stories such as The Hounds of Tindalos and Night Fear, and books of poems such as In Mayan Splendor, a biography of Lovecraft: Howard Phillips Lovecraft: Dreamer on the Night Side, and his own autobiography: Autobiographical Memoir (Necronomicon Press, 1986).

INFOGRAPHIC ROALD DAHL

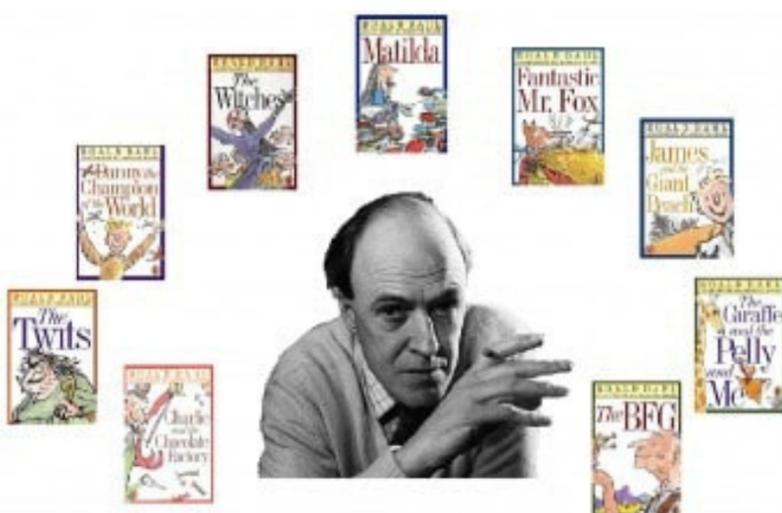

1916—1990 BIBLIOGRAPHY

Roald Dahl was born in the Llandaff district of Cardiff City, Wales, on September 13, 1916, to Norwegian parents, Harald Dahl and Sofie Magdalene Hesselberg. They named it Roald in honor of the explorer Roald Amundsen, a national hero of Norway.

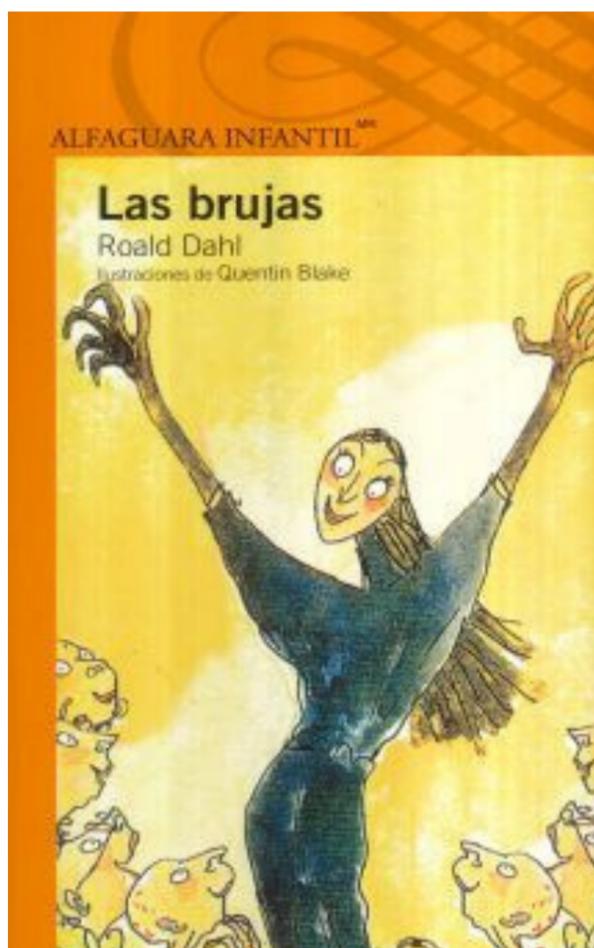

RECOGNIZED NOVELS

Roald Dahl was a British novelist, short story writer, poet and screenwriter among his most popular works are Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, James and the Giant Peach, Matilda, The Great Good-natured Giant, Agnieszka Trot, The Witches and Tales of the Unexpected.

What is the purpose of the novel The Witches?

One of the most classic and traditional components of The Witches is the main theme of the novel: the fight of good against evil. This is the typical confrontation between "good" and "bad" characters that, naturally, culminates in the victory of the good protagonist over the evil witches.

Shirley Jackson

1916-1965

Writer Shirley Jackson was born in 1916 in California. Among her early works was "The Lottery," the highly controversial and famous short story about terror a village that partakes in an annual death ritual. Jackson, who also wrote such novels as The Haunting of Hill House and We Have Always Lived in the Castle, died of heart failure in 1965.

LITERARY WORKS

"The Haunting of Hill House"

The Haunting of Hill House takes place over a single week in rural 1950s America. The story begins with a brief introduction to the cast of characters. Dr. John Montague is the psychic researcher who instigates the adventure in Hill House.

"-God! Whose hand was I holding?"

"Am I walking toward something I should be running away from?"

"The Lottery"

"The Lottery." The tale, which starts as a seemingly benign account of an annual event in smalltown America, takes a dark turn when the event is revealed to be a gruesome sacrifice.

"It's not the way it used to be... people ain't the way they used to be."

"The Bird's Nest"

The Bird's Nest is a narrative magician's trunk of a book dealing, on its surface, with multiple personalities. Elizabeth Richmond, daughter of a rebellious mother who died young, is kept closely confined by her aunt's rules and masterful personality.

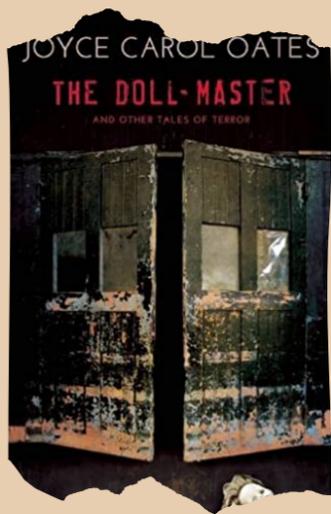

"I delight in what I fear"

Joyce Carol Oates

Joyce Carol Oates, pseudonyms Rosamond Smith and Lauren Kelly, (born June 16, 1938, Lockport, New York, U.S.), American novelist, short-story writer, and essayist noted for her vast literary output in a variety of styles and genres. Particularly effective are her depictions of violence and evil in modern society.

SOME OF HER BEST TERRIFYING STORIES:

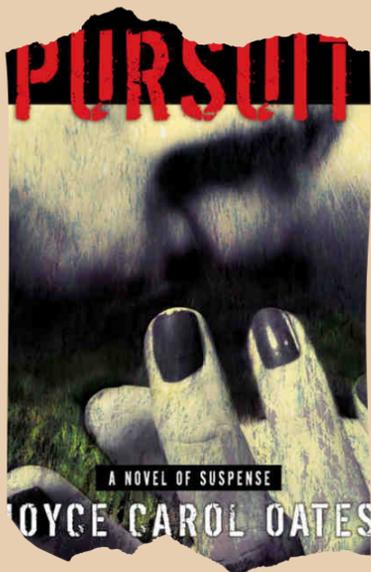

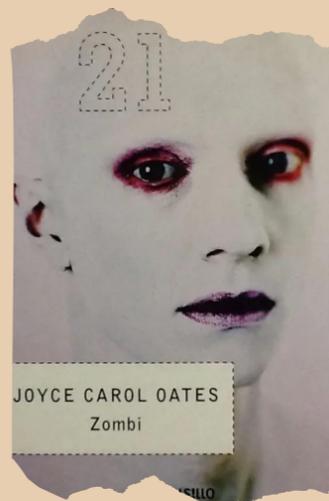

The Doll-Master: And Other Tales of Terror.

Each story in this anthology will increase your feeling of vulnerability and paranoia, since they show a truth that we prefer to hide: that human beings are even more terrifying than monsters from beyond the grave. Carol Oates renews the genre and takes it to unprecedented limits.

Zombi.

The plot follows the story of Quentin, a serial killer and sexual sadist who kidnaps men and performs home surgeries on them to try to create a "zombie", which he defines as a slave who loves him without qualms and satisfies his every desire. The play is inspired by the life of Jeffrey Dahmer.

Persuit.

.Persecution is impeccably written, with a very particular style and a way of narrating so incredible that it seems to emulate that duality that we all have between what we say / think and what we actually feel. In that sense, Joyce Carol Oates immerses you like no one else in the mind of each narrator.

Most important phrases of Joyce Carol Oates:

"Tragedy is an experience that enlightens character"

-Joyce Carol Oates.

"Love combined with hate is more powerful than love. Or that hate."

-Joyce Carol Oates.

"Nothing is accidental in the universe - this is one of my Laws of Physics - except the entire universe itself, which is pure accident, pure divinity."

-Joyce Carol Oates.

"Our house is made of glass ... And our lives are made of glass, and there is nothing we can do to protect ourselves."

-Joyce Carol Oates.

Sheridan Le Fanu

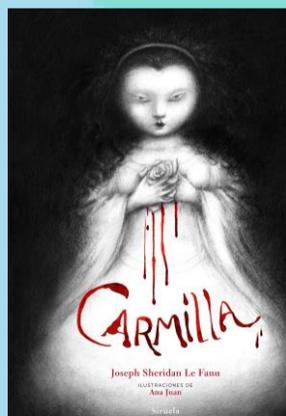

He was on the staff of several newspapers, until his death, Dublin, February 7, 1873.

Considered the master of the horror genre, great precursor of the psychological thriller.

"But dreams break through the stone walls, illuminate the empty rooms and darken the illuminated ones, and the characters involved in the dream come and go as they please, mocking the locks."

- Joseph Sheridan, Carmilla

One of his most famous works

C. AUGUSTE DUPIN

Original character created by:

Edgar Allan Poe

Edgar Allan Poe was an American romantic writer, poet, critic and journalist.

He was a renovator of the gothic novel, especially for his horror stories. He is considered the inventor of the detective story, and more.

Here we will talk about the character with whom the detective genre began, Chevalier Aguste Dupin.

Dupin is described by his roommate as a rather asocial, frivolous and very interesting person. In short, a cold analyst.

He appears in three short stories:

- Morgue of street crimes (1841)
- The Mystery of Marie Roget (1842)
- The Purloined Letter (1844)

This character is considered the key predecessor for the creation of other detectives such as Sherlock Holmes and Hercule Poirot.

Dupin is of French origin, we are told that he came from a wealthy family but due to bad luck he ended up living in a cheap house that was rumoured to be haunted along with his friend and our anonymous narrator, who describes the gruesome crime scenes and how they are solved.

WE INVITE YOU TO READ THE STORIES. YOU WILL DIE OF SUSPENSE!!

2002: Bram Stoker Award for Best Long Fiction: My Work Is Not Yet Done

2002: International Horror Guild Award, Long Form Category: My Work Is Not Yet Done

Famous Quotes

"The sinister, the terrible never deceive: the state in which they leave us is always one of enlightenment. And only this condition of vicious insight allows us a full grasp of the world, all things considered, just as a frigid melancholy grants us full possession of ourselves. We may hide from horror only in the heart of horror" ("The Medusa")

"People may believe they can choose any number of things. But they cannot choose to undo their existence, leaving them to live and die as puppets who have had an existence forced upon them whose edicts they must follow. If you are already among the existent, anything you do will be unjustified and MALIGNANTLY USELESS."

The Conspiracy Against the Human Race: A Contrivance of Horror

"Also worthy of mention is a clique among the suicidal for whom the meaning of their act is a darker thing. Frustrated as perpetrators of an all-inclusive extermination, they would kill themselves only because killing it all is closed off to them. They hate having been delivered into a world only to be told, by and by, "This way to the abattoir, Ladies and Gentlemen."

Mary Shelley

Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin was born on August 30, 1797 in London (England).

Her mother died days after her birth due to the fevers that the childbirth caused.

He grew up and was educated in an intellectual and progressive environment

Mary fell in love with Percy Bysshe, whom she admired for his great intellectual knowledge.

Mary was living with Percy in common law, they had a son but he died prematurely

A vacation with her husband and sister resulted in her best-known work, since not being able to leave the mansion they decided to create horror stories, and that is where Frankenstein was born.

"Mary turned her tragedies into the life of Victor Frankenstein"

Richard Matheson

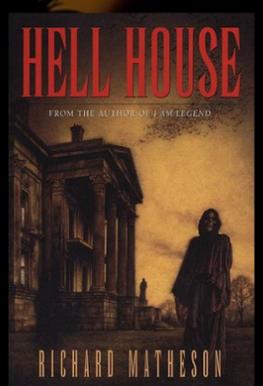

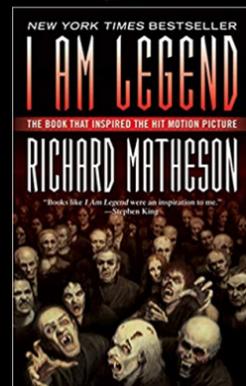

Richard Burton Matheson (February 20, 1926 – June 23, 2013) was an American author and screenwriter, primarily in the fantasy, horror, and science fiction genres.

His life

Matheson was born in Allendale, New Jersey, to Norwegian immigrants Bertolf and Fanny Matheson. They divorced when he was eight, and he was raised in Brooklyn, New York, by his mother. His early writing influences were the film Dracula (1931), novels by Kenneth Roberts, and a poem which he read in the newspaper Brooklyn Eagle, where he published his first short story at age eight. He entered Brooklyn Technical High School in 1939, graduated in 1943, and served with the Army in Europe during World War II; this formed the basis for his 1960 novel The Beardless Warriors. He attended the Missouri School of Journalism at the University of Missouri, earning his BA in 1949, then moved to California.

Some of the most important books richard wrote are:

- I Am Legend (1954)
- Hell House (1971)
- Somewhere in Time (1975)
- The Incredible Shrinking Man (1957)
- A Stir of Echoes (1958)

Best quotes from richard matheson books

"Everyone has something to hide. And if they couldn't hide it the world would be in a lot worse mess than it is."

— Richard Matheson, A Stir of Echoes

"Full circle. A new terror born in death, a new superstition entering the unassailable fortress of forever. I am legend."

— Richard Matheson, I Am Legend

"There were no servants to maintain the house; they were indistinguishable from the guests by then."

— Richard Matheson, Hell House

Peter Francis Straub

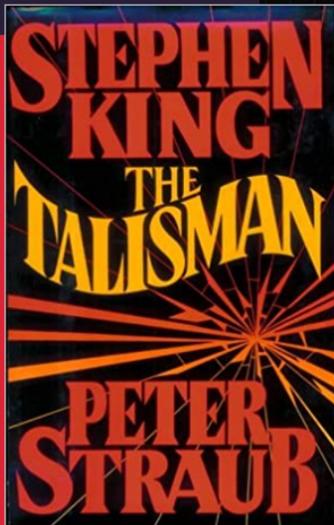

Biography

Peter Francis Straub was born on March 2, 1943 in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. He is a novelist, short story writer and specialized poet who has written numerous science fiction books but is especially recognized for his horror works. He earned a bachelor's degree in English Literature from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1965, completing a master's degree at Columbia University a year later. For a time he was a professor at the University of Milwaukee but soon moved to Dublin, where he began writing.

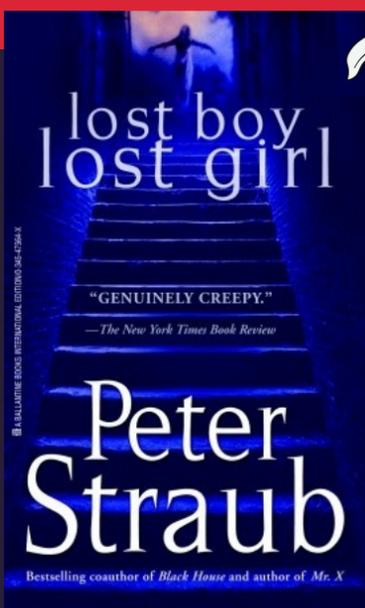

Horror narrative

He has written a few novels in collaboration with Stephen King, and one of them has been made into a film. His horror writings are what make him known and he is characterized by his narrative skill and realistic and credible exposition, although the structure of his novels, it is not usually very round. He has received numerous awards specialized in the genre and is one of the most translated authors.

Awards

His macabre stories have received several important awards in the Anglo-Saxon field: the Bram Stoker Award, the World Fantasy Award and the International Horror Guild Award, which places him among the most awarded authors of the genre in recent history.

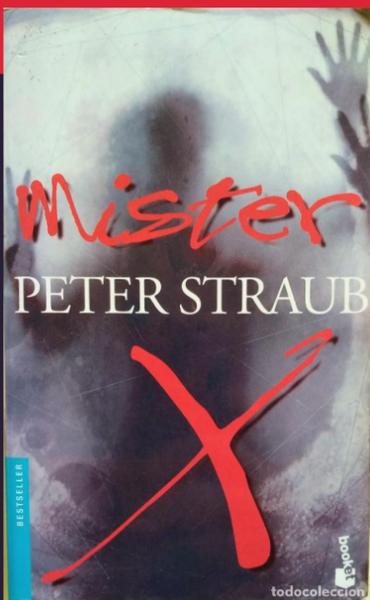

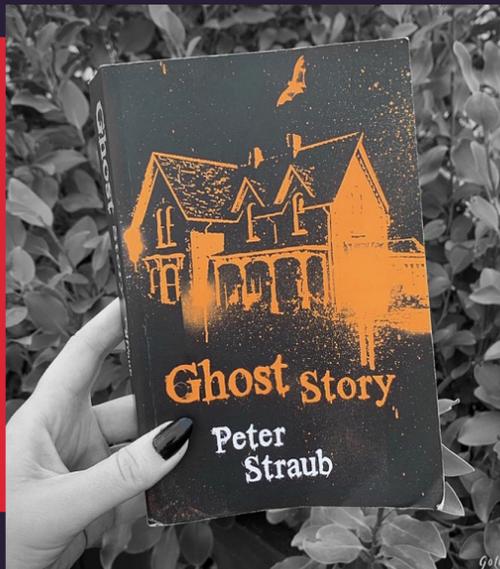

Lost boy, lost girl

In the village of Millhaven, a woman commits suicide for no apparent reason. A week later, his fifteen-year-old son, Mark, vanishes from the face of the Earth. Tim Underhill, a writer of horror novels, will travel from New York to attend his sister-in-law's funeral and investigate Mark's disappearance. With the help of the eccentric and brilliant private detective Tom Pasmore, he will track down a murderous pedophile who has already claimed several lives, and discover that shortly before his mother committed suicide Mark had become obsessed with an abandoned house, whose terrible story may also have to do with Mark's fate. This is a novel as fascinating as it is shocking, full of intrigue and disturbing realism.

Ghost Story

It's the chilling story of five friends, one of whom dies unexpectedly. Those who survive gather to tell each other stories of ghosts. The arrival of a mysterious and beautiful woman makes nightmares come true. The population in which they live begins to be victims of apparitions, suicides and amazing events. Ghosts has been a resounding international success and has been taken to the cinema.

Mister X

"In Mister X there are scenes of pure horror that force you to close your eyes. When Peter Straub starts all his engines, no one beats him." Stephen King. The book is about Ned Dunstan, a character who days before the eve of his birthday goes into a shock in which he witnesses scenes of ruthless massacres perpetrated by a mysterious and malevolent being dressed in black whom he calls Mister X. Ned returns to his hometown called Edgerton, that decision was driven by a premonition that his mother Star was dying. Before he dies, his mother reveals his father's name to him and warns him of the grave danger he is in, yet Ned decides to find out as much as possible about his father. In this way, a series of extraordinary adventures are unleashed that will reveal the existence of an identical twin brother, which has the ability to defy the laws of nature. This unmasks aspects of his own identity, that of his family and that of the fearsome Mister X.

Stephen King and Peter Straub

The famous Stephen King and Straub are friends and great writers of the genre but the difference between them is that for King, monsters exist and stalk us when darkness falls, while for Straub there is nothing more terrifying than the secrets that they hide in the deepest recesses of the human psyche.

Regan was born in the book in april 1959, but in the movie of The exorcist from 1973 se was born in 1961.

She is the daughter of famous the actress Chris MacNeil.

A girl of only 12 years old, shy and creative, who is taken over by a demon that causes a strange, aggressive and completely different behavior to her, which causes her to worry and frighten her mother, forcing Chris to consult an exorcist.

<https://amzn.to/3v1S99i>

<https://bit.ly/3peSlkM>

Regan became an icon of horror films and a primary influence for subsequent films depicting demonic possession. The character has been spoofed in many parodies (in one occasion by Linda Blair herself), such as the Scary Movie series.

Regan is a 12-year-old girl, slim, with red hair, hazel eyes, light skin, white dress and bare feet. But, when she is cruel, she had a zombie face. But in her normal form, she had a human face.

ABOUT THE BOOK AND THE MOVIE "THE EXORCIST":

The Exorcist is a 1971 horror novel by American writer William Peter Blatty. The book details the demonic possession of twelve-year-old Regan MacNeil, the daughter of a famous actress, and the two priests who attempt to exorcise the demon. Published by Harper & Row, the novel was the basis for a highly successful film adaptation released two years later, whose screenplay was also written and produced by Blatty, and which is part of The Exorcist franchise.

THE EXORCIST

<https://bit.ly/3aLgzuu>

The novel was inspired by a 1949 case of demonic possession and exorcism that Blatty learned about when he was a student in the class of 1950 at Georgetown University, so the novel is set in Washington, D.C., near the Georgetown University campus.

ABOUT THE WRITER:

William Peter Blatty was born in New York on January 7, 1928 and died in Bethesda, Maryland on January 12, 2017. He was an American writer and film director. Author of the novel The Exorcist and the subsequent screenplay for the film of the same name, winner of an Oscar for best adapted screenplay in 1973.

H.P. LOVECRAFT

BIOGRAPHY

Howard Phillips was an American writer, he born in 1890 in Providence and he died in 1937. Only child of Winfield Scott Lovecraft sales representative and Sarah Susan Phillips. His education fell mainly on his mother and his maternal grandfather. Due to his delicate health, he went little to school and became a lonely young man dedicated to reading, astronomy and writing. Two months after his mother's death, Lovecraft attended an amateur writers convention in Boston, where he met Sonia Greene. The last two or three years of his life were financially strained. Despite his hard work and efforts as a writer, the poverty in which he lived increased.

CURIOUS FACT

At the age of 14 he suffered from the death of his paternal grandfather, Phillis Shipple Van Buren, which is why he came to think about suicide. Although he considered himself a pacifist, he distrusted the human race and considered that war was something that should accompany humanity to its end, perhaps as a cause of its extermination. As an adult he liked to take solitary walks and visit cemeteries to find the necessary inspiration in his solitude.

HIS LIFE

He never succeeded, he become famous until he died, his friend build up an editorial to publish his stories. Cthulhu comes from his fear to the sea, what is caused by an intoxication for eating fish, since he was a kid..

OUTSTANDING WORKS OF LOVECRAFT

Some outstanding works of Lovecraft are as follows:

- Call of Cthulhu
- In the mountains of madness

HORROR WRITERS

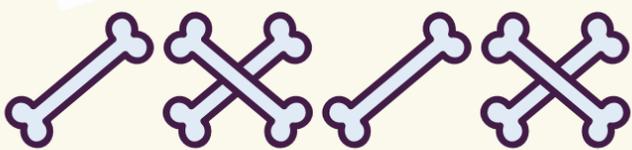

Shirley Jackson

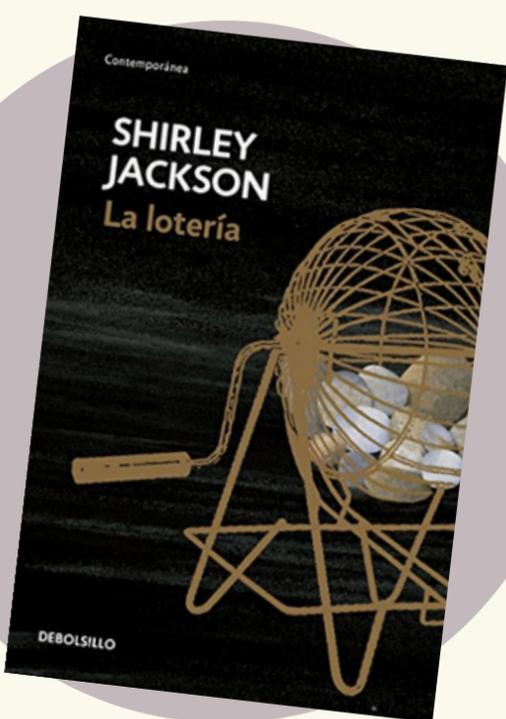

Shirley Hardey Jackson was born on December 14th, 1916 in a town in the state of California.

She was an American writer, known primarily for her works of horror and mystery. She used to comment that since she was little she felt strange and that led her to want more to be in the world of books than with other children.

Over the duration of her writing career, which spanned over two decades she composed six novels, two memoirs and more than short stories.

Jackson's most famous story, "the lottery", first published in the New Yorker on June 26, 1948, established her reputation as a master of the horror tale.

Her tales and stories really convey the mystery to the reader and this was her essence, also the variety of ideas that are in each reading.

- Ulthar's Cats

He died of intestinal cancer at Providence's Jane Brown Memorial Hospital.

Ulthar's Cats

"Ulthar's cats" has cats as protagonists, the story focuses on a law that prohibits the killing of cats in a town called Ulthar.

Cats are treated with special respect, bordering on veneration.

Lovecraft grew up in the company of a black cat he named Nigger-man, whom he cared for affectionately.

Ulthar is a city with a prominent role in the dream adventure cycle.

The "do not kill cats" law was proposed by Barzai

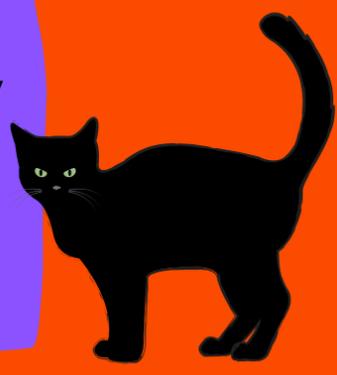

Lovecraft's love for cats grew throughout his life, due to the memory of his first pet.

Ulthar is located beyond the Skai River, in the Dreamlands.

The kittens of the city: they are highly intelligent and can communicate with humans who understand their language.

STEPHEN KING

"Richard Bachman"

Stephen Edwin King was born on September 21, 1947, in Portland, the son of Donald King and Nellie Ruth Pillsbury.

In 1966 he graduated from Lisbon Falls High School, and completed his training at the University of Maine of Orono.

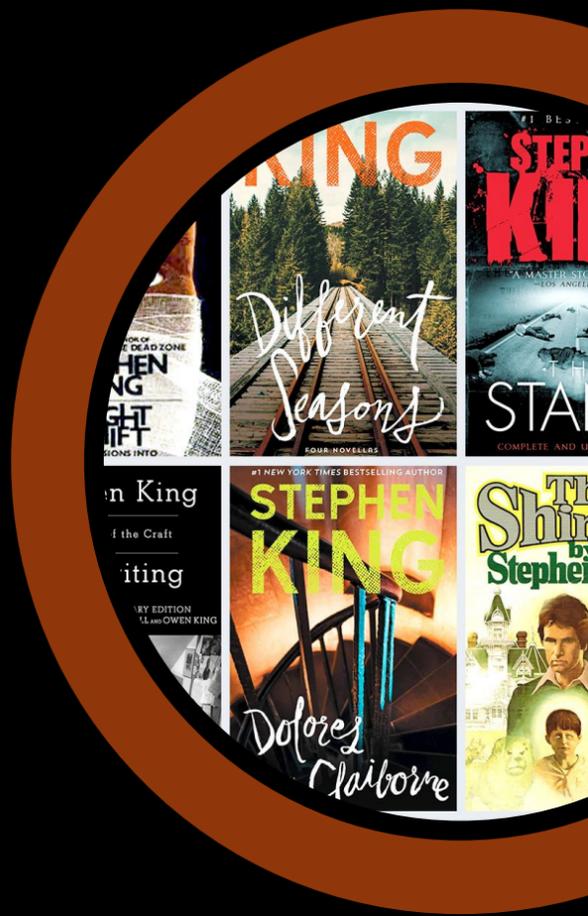

He began his path as a writer when he published some short stories in the college magazine The Maine Campus.

Stephen King's Best Works

Stephen King has more than 70 books created and more than 300 million copies sold.

After 50 years of being considered one of the greatest writers of all time, these following works are considered King's greatest works.

1. Carrie.
2. It.
3. The Talisman.
4. The Shinning.
5. Misery.
6. Salem's Lot.
7. The Dark Tower Saga.

IT

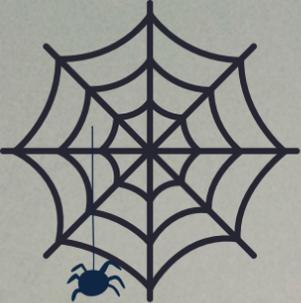

It is a monster created by King in 1986, the year in which the novel in which this monster appears, was published.

This creature represents the fear of all people, because of this, in order to live, it needs to feed on the fear of all living beings, especially children, but why specifically children? Children are more sensitive to fear, their fear is more "delicious" for It, because of this he decides to use a clown appearance to attract children and when they feel confident, it transforms into what they fear the most, but in an even more grotesque way to kill them with fear and thus feed on their fear, after a year, he hibernates for 27 years, and then again begins to kidnap children and kill them before hibernating again.

Anne Rice

(OCTOBER 4, 1941)

FIRST YEARS

Anne Rice was born on October 4, 1941 in New Orleans, Louisiana, USA. She is an American author known for her novels about vampires and other supernatural creatures.

Rice was christened Howard Allen O'Brien, but she hated her first name, so she changed it to Anne in the first grade. She grew up in an environment with imaginative narratives from her Irish Catholic family.

A TRAGIC LIFE

In 1956 her mother died for alcoholism, so she lost faith in God. Also, she finished high school in Texas, and attended Texas Woman's University.

She married poet Stan Rice when she was 20, and received a B.A. and an M.A. from San Francisco State College; however her daughter Michelle was just five years old when she died of leukemia, a loss that devastated Rice.

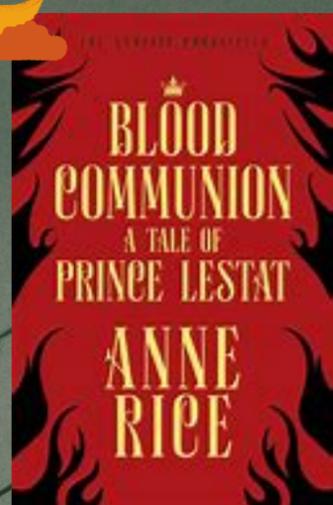

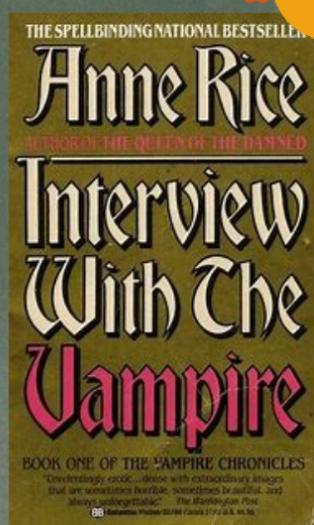

BOOKS WRITTEN BY HER

- Interview with the Vampire (1976)
- The Feast of All Saints (1979)
- Cry to Heaven (1982)
- Exit to Eden (1985)
- The Vampire Lestat (1985)
- Belinda (1986)
- The Queen of the Damned (1988)
- The Tale of the Body Thief (1992)
- Servant of the Bones (1996)
- Violin (1997)
- The Vampire Armand (1998)
- Merrick (2000)
- Blood And Gold (2001)
- Blackwood Farm (2002)
- Blood Canticle (2003)
- Called Out of Darkness (2008)
- The Wolf Gift (2012)
- The Wolves of Midwinter (2012)
- Prince Lestat (2014)
- Blood Communion (2018)

She wrote a sympathetic treatment of dysfunctional supernatural characters with topics such as the meaning of the life, love, loneliness, and moral conflicts.

Vampires are "the perfect metaphor for the outsider who is in the midst of everything, yet completely cut off."

MAIN CHARACTER IN "INTERVIEW WITH THE VAMPIRE"

Louis de Pointe du Lac was born in France on October 4, 1766, and he raised under Catholicism. He is a vampire haunted by the meaning of his immortality, constantly struggling with his lust for human blood and seeking to find meaning in his new life.

In fact, the vampires world is not very different from the human world. Many people successful lack empathy and awareness. Louis' dilemma is one that everybody deal every day, the world is a scary place.

Edith Wharton

Edith Wharton was born in 1862, died in 1937 at the age of 75.

She wrote some horror stories of which very few are known, one of them is "Ghost stories."

Important facts of her life

- in 1923 she became the first woman to be awarded an honorary doctorate from Yale University
- She became friend and confident of many intellectuals of her time. Henry James, Francis Scott Fitzgerald Jean Cocteau and Ernest Hemingway were his guests on occasion. She was also a good friend of reformer president Theodore Roosevelt.
- in 1930 she was appointed a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters

Chosen story

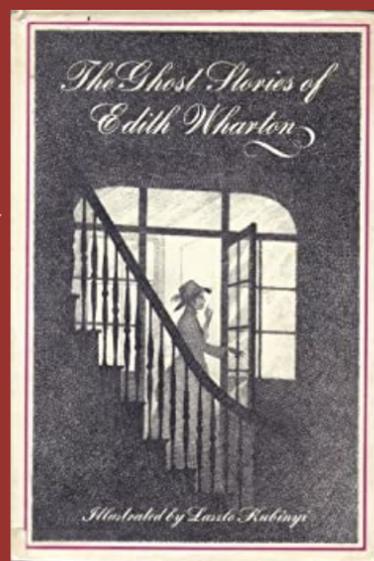

Ghost stories

While claiming not to believe in ghosts, paradoxically she did confess that she was frightened of them. Wharton imbues this potent irrational and imaginative fear into her ghostly fiction to great effect.

Characters of Story

- "The Lady's Maid's Bell." The tale is narrated to us by young Alice Hartley.
- In "The Eyes," which transpires mainly in England and Rome, an aged man of the world, author Andrew Culwin, tells his cronies of the one ghostly experience that he had witnessed

SHIRLEY JACKSON

Horror writers

Biography:

She was born on December 14, 1916 in San Francisco and died on August 8, 1965 at the age of 48 from a heart attack, she was overweight and smoked too much which affected her dying young.

As a young child she felt different from other children and that led to her closeness with books, later in her teenage years she moved to New York City.

It is said that Shirley Jackson kept different diaries in which she wrote anecdotes in different voices, as if she herself were more than one person at a time.

Richard Matheson

Stephen King

Joanne Harris

It is considered that she was one of the best horror writers in the United States, although she was not fully recognized, she was a great influence for writers who currently stand out as: Richard Matheson, Stephen King, Joanne Harris, among others.

Work and Books:

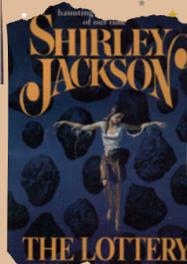

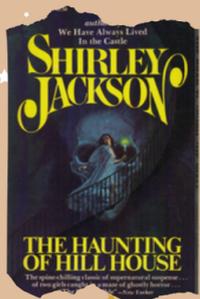

In Jackson's works there is a great interest in what is hidden on the surface, a very fruitful space for terror that she knew how to work with and take care of even the smallest detail.

In addition to terror, violence is another of the topics that interests Jackson, and above all, senseless violence, which occurs within the families themselves and which does not have a clear objective but is clearly unnecessary.

Among his works we cannot forget The Lottery, The Curse of Hill House or The Road Through the Wall.

"The Curse of Hill House" (1959) is the construction of a character whose precarious mental stability crumbles inside a haunted house. The most famous house in the literature of its time. Well known for its ghosts.

STEPHEN KING

Master of Horror

The American writer of horror, mystery and science fiction novels was born in 1947, in Maine, United States.

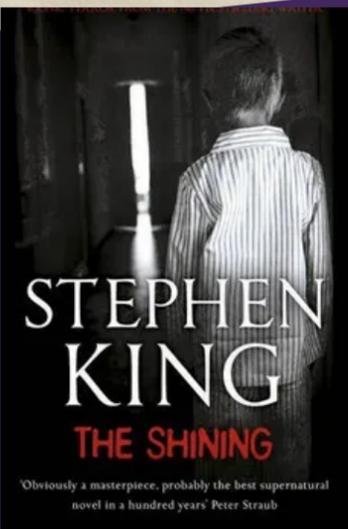

He is one of the most universally admired living American writers. You can find stories of him published in The New Yorker and Esquire, his books never make it off the New York Times best-seller list, and many of his works have been adapted for film and television.

His most successful books

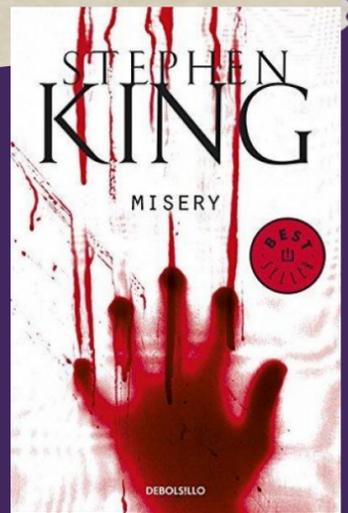

1974

1977

1986

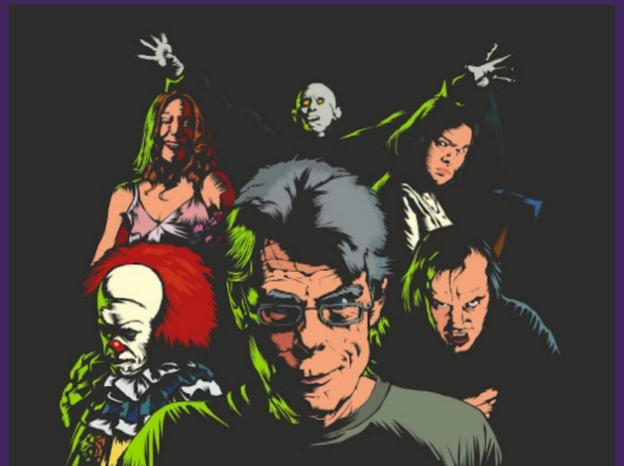

1987

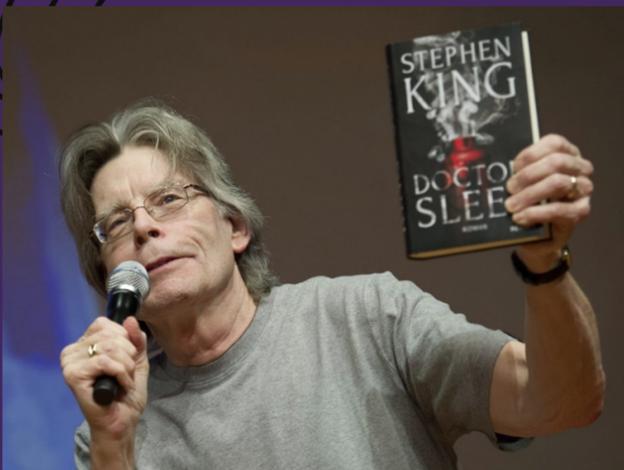

Stephen began his actual writing career in January of 1959, when he and his brother David decided to publish their own local newspaper called "Dave's Rag".

In 1963, collaborating with his best friend from college Chris Chesley, they published a collection of 18 short stories called "People, Places, and Things- Volume I".

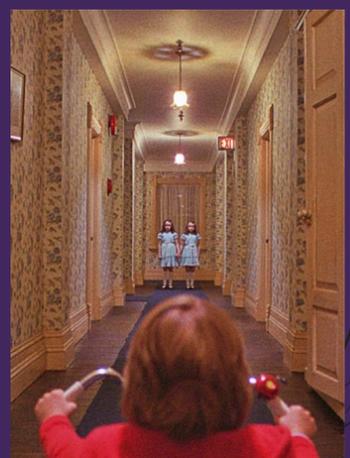

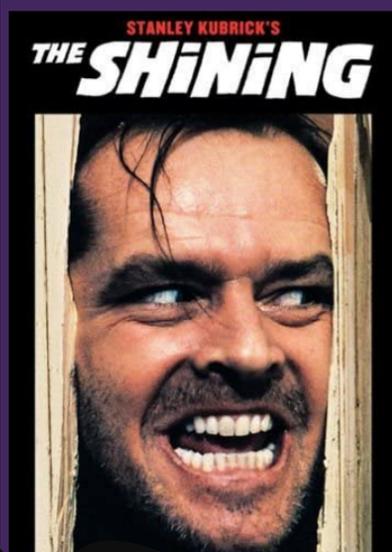

In some works he uses the pseudonym of Richard Bachman

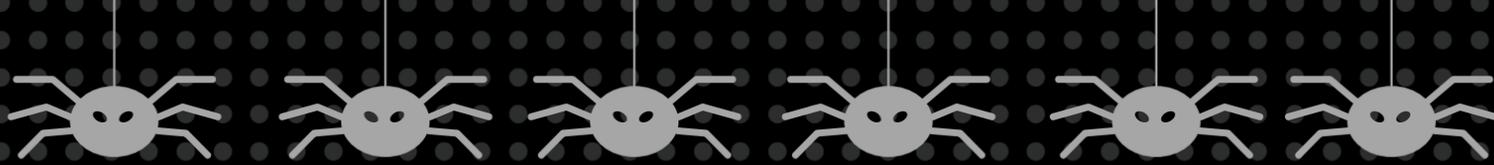

Film adaptations of most of his novels have been made all over the world, it would be hard to count all of them. The most recognized is "The Shining", was made in 1980 by the director Stanley Kubrick.

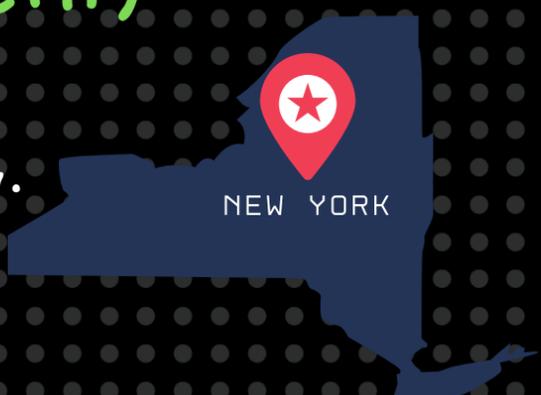

King's work includes six nonfiction books, about 60 novels and some 200 short stories which have been collected in eleven collections.

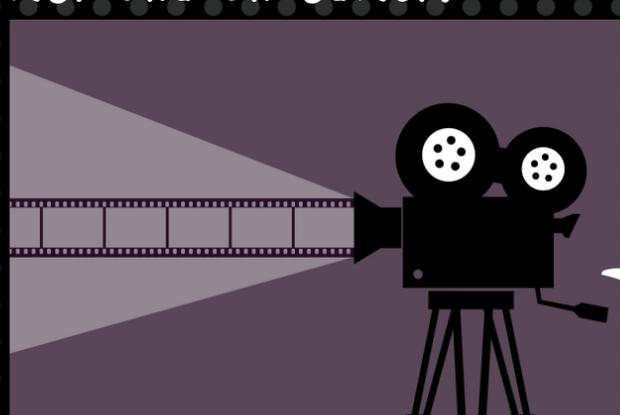

Theodore Eibon Donald Klein (T.E.D. Klein)

He was born on July 15, 1947 in New York. He lives in New York City.

Theodore is an American horror writer and an editor.

He studied in Brown University and he graduated in 1969.

He chose to study "film history" at Columbia University in 1970.

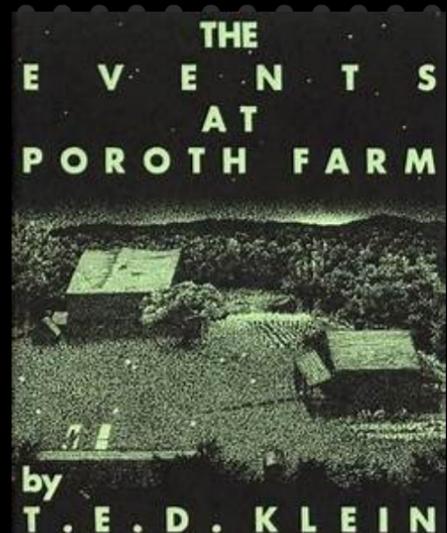

Klein was interested in writing, for that reason, he started like an imitator, because he tried to imitate the feelings (emotion, scared and intrigue) that he felt when he read writers like:

- Arthur Machen
- MR James
- Walter De La Mare
- HP Lovecraft

For us, the picture represents his feelings when he read those writers.

He started his career as a horror writer with his book named "The Events at Poroth Farm" in 1972.

His featured books are:

- The Events at Poroth Farm.
- The Ceremonies
- Dark Gods, his book includes long and short horror tales.

Also, he wrote the script for the film trauma named: Dario Argento, He has written two critical essays on macabre fiction: "Dr. Van Helsing's Handy Guide to Ghost Stories", a series of articles for "Twilight Zone" magazine, and Raising Goosebumps for Fun and Profit and written for "Writer's Digest" magazine. He is still alive.

Awards and honours

In 2007, she received the "José Fuentes Mares" National Prize for Literature for her novel "El dolor es un triángulo equilátero".

In 2010, she got a honorific mention in the "Beatriz Mirror" National Short Story Award and the following year, her essay, "La luz detrás de la puerta: el silencio en la escritura", was the second place in the International Literature Contest of the Bicentennial "Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz". She won the Juan José Arreola National Short Story Competition, 2014

Narrative Type

The narrative of the author Norma Lazo has always been characterized by having dark and violent tones that are practically her personal insignia; very marked in works such as "El dolor es un triángulo equilátero" or "El mecanismo del miedo". This does not imply that her narrative is the same all the time and books like "lo imperdonable" that deals with existentialism and self-discovery are a clear example that this author is a very versatile person to write.

ANIMAL CEMETERY

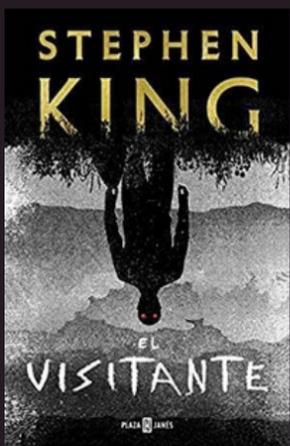

Louis Creed, a good doctor settles in a beautiful house in Ludlow along with his wife, Rachel and their two children, Ellie and Gage. Upon arriving at the place where the residence is located, he meets Judson "Jud" Crandall, an old and kind neighbor of the Creeds who end up linking a friendship.

Everything was normal, until, taken by his neighbor, he meets a mysterious pet cemetery

MISERY

Cold sweats run through our bodies when the name of Annie Wilkes comes to mind. Wild and like a cowbell, this affable-looking young lady becomes our worst nightmare. Paul Sheldon, the writer who has her obsessed has fallen into her hands. The woman didn't like anything that she killed her favorite character and the poor guy is going to find out soon ...

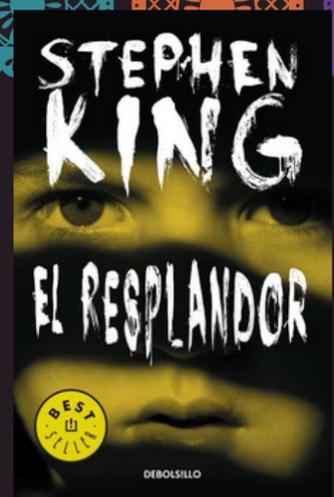

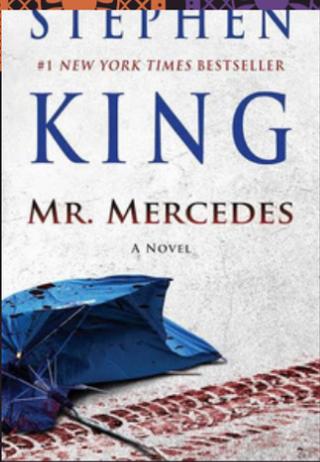

THE VISIT

An eleven year old boy has been brutally raped and murdered. All the evidence points to one of Flint City's most beloved citizens: Terry Maitland, a coach in the children's league, a literature teacher, an exemplary husband and father of two girls. Detective Ralph Anderson orders his arrest. Maitland has a firm alibi that proves he was in another city when the crime was committed, but DNA evidence found at the scene confirms he is guilty.

CUJO

What a hot flash we spent with the dog ... And it is that the charming San Bernardo that gives the title to the work is bitten by a bat that infects him with rabies. In fact, this is rage and the rest is nonsense. The animal sows terror to unimaginable levels in the small town of Castle Rock. You will never look at the Saint Bernards with the same eyes again.

MR MERCEDES

Just before dawn, in a decadent American city, hundreds of unemployed people wait for the opening of the employment office to claim one of the thousand jobs that have been announced. They have queued all night. Invisible until they see it on top of them, a Mercedes emerges from the cold fog of the early morning.

His driver runs over and crushes those within his reach. Then he backs down and lashes out at them again.

EL RESPLANDOR

Not a few are more familiar with the Stanley Kubrick adaptation than the original novel. However, we can already assure you that the spiral of madness unleashed in the Overlook Hotel gives, at least, the same fear when we experience it in King's handwriting. In fact, fans of the film will enjoy some contributions that will delight them.

RABIA

Charles Decker is an 18-year-old teenager who suffers from schizophrenia, who wants to be admitted to a correctional facility for assaulting a teacher with a wrench, causing a serious head trauma.

Gun in hand, and so that he is not ed up, he kidnaps his class an entire morning. To make the situation more bearable Charles tells them part of his childhood and adolescence; Meanwhile, the atmosphere begins to heat up among the students, and soon they begin to attack each other verbally and physically, infected with Charles' dementia.

IT

The clown sympathy thing has always been a moot issue. In fact, they are more disturbing than anything else. To delve into this second idea, the enormous author introduced us to Pennywise, that sort of paranormal creature hungry for blood. The fear that we go through in the company of the losers' club is not paid for.

Death is merciful, for from it there is no return; but for him who returns from the deepest chambers of the night, lost and conscious, there is no peace again.

AT THE MOUNTAINS OF MADNESS

H. P. Lovecraft wrote "At the Mountains of Madness" in early 1931, and the novel was first published in three installments in 1936, in the Pulp magazine - Astounding Stories. Influenced by the icy landscapes from the brush and imagination of Nicholas Roerich. In the Mountains of Madness summarizes the writer's lifelong fascination with Antarctica.

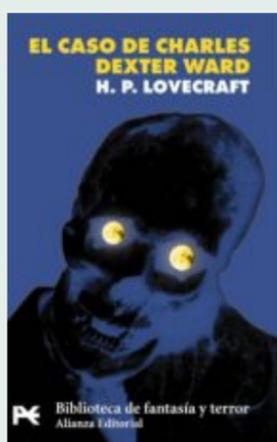

CALL OF CTHULHU

The Call of Cthulhu is a short story in novelette structure written by H. P. Lovecraft in 1926. The work was first published in February 1928 by the pulp publisher Weird Tales.

AUTHOR'S FUN FACT

Despite writing and developing numerous science fiction and horror or alien and cosmic horror stories, it became known that his favorite and most widely read literary genre was crime novels.

THE CASE OF CHARLES DEXTER WARD

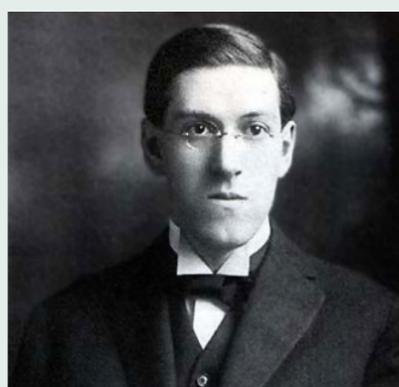

It is a short novel written by H. P. Lovecraft between 1927 and 1928. It can be considered one of the author's major works. Based on the well-known Salem Witch affair of 1692 and set in his native Providence, the author recounts the strange events surrounding the protagonist (Charles Dexter Ward) and his mysterious ancestor, the occultist Joseph Curwen, who disappeared on the eve of the American Revolutionary War.

BIOGRAPHY

American writer, Howard Phillips Lovecraft was born in 1890 in Providence, Rhode Island, and died in the same town in 1937. Lovecraft developed his own mythology within the horror genre, following a current of materialistic cosmic horror far removed from the traditional aspects of the genre.

Stephen Edwin King

Stephen Edwin King (born in Portland, Maine, on September 21, 1947), better known as Stephen King and occasionally by his pen name Richard Bachman, is an American writer of horror novels, supernatural fiction, mystery, science fiction, and fantasy literature.

In 1966 he graduated from Lisbon Falls High School, and completed his training at the University of Maine of Orono. During his years of university training, he actively participated in student political life, becoming a member of the Students Senate and becoming involved in the Orono Campus anti-military movement against the Vietnam War. There he began his literary activity publishing various stories in the university magazine The Maine Campus.

He won critical acclaim with his first novel, Carrie (1974), which would be followed by The Shining (1977), which earned him great international prestige, It (That, 1986), Misery (1987) and Insomnia (1994).), to name just a few of his biggest hits.

As a child he witnessed a tragic accident: one of his friends was trapped on the train tracks and was run over by it. Although it is suspected that this event is the inspiration for his own works, the author dismisses this idea, claiming that his fondness for this genre was rather due to reading fiction and horror books that an aunt of his collected.

His effective and direct style, together with his great ability to highlight the most disturbing aspects of everyday life, have made him the best-selling specialist in horror literature (although he has also made forays into the fantasy and science fiction genre). Many of his novels have been taken to the cinema.

It: In Derry, Maine, seven teenagers first discovered the horror that they deemed "It" often taking the form of Pennywise the Clown. Now adults, each with their own successes, one of the self-proclaimed "Losers Club" asks the gang to return and end the evil creature's reign once and for all.

The shining: It's a deeply suspenseful paranormal story about Jack Torrance, who starts a new job as a caretaker at the Overlook Hotel, hoping to spend more time with his family and work on his writing. During the off-season, a chilling winter storm confines Jack to the hotel — and sinister forces begin to emerge. It's a classic haunted house story that has been scaring readers for nearly 50 years.

SUSAN HILL

"THE WOMAN IN BLACK"

SUSAN HILL...

Susan Elizabeth Hill was born on February 5, 1942 in Scarborough (England).

The British writer is known for her books of police intrigue, suspense, horror and mystery. In his novels, Hill mixes the English gothic atmosphere and his ghost stories

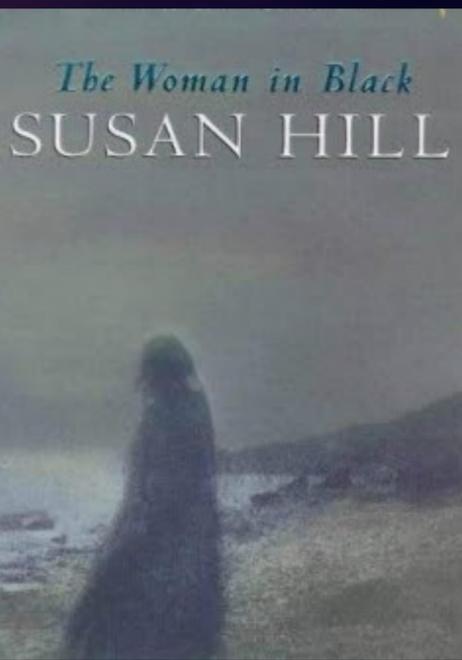

Her life as a writer began in the 60's, a period in which she published novels such as "The Enclosure" (1961) or "Do Me A Favor" (1963).

"THE WOMAN IN BLACK"

His best known work internationally is "The Woman in Black", written in 1983 and published in 1987.

Susan Hill's Woman in Black can be defined as a horror and ghost novel...

It contains all the necessary elements: the strange, incredulous but brave protagonist who will find an ally, the people who keep a secret, a terrible past history, a beautiful but terrifying setting, a mysterious house... it is narrated in the first person; is an effective horror story that has had different versions in theater, television and cinema. The woman in black is a short novel, very entertaining, that achieves great moments of tension.

Currently Susan Hill works as a contributor as a columnist with the "Daily Telegraph" and owns a publishing house called Long Barn Books and a literary magazine called "Books And Company".

MARY SHELLEY

1797 - 1851

CREATOR OF FRANKENSTEIN

Born on August 30, 1797, in London, she lived through the death of her mother from a very young age, a few days after her birth.

She created in 1818 the considered first science fiction novel, Frankenstein: The Modern Prometheus, her most important work and a classic in our days.

On the night of June 16, 1816, she met with Lord Byron and others. They read horror stories for entertainment. Mary then imagined Frankenstein inspired by a nightmare she had at the age of eighteen. She wrote the novel after a bet with Byron.

She died in London of a brain tumor while she slept on February 1, 1851. Her last wish was to be buried with her parents. They rest in St Peter's Cemetery, Bournemouth.

MARY SHELLEY

The daughter of the philosopher William Golding and the feminist writer Mary Wollstonecraft (died within weeks of giving birth), her stepmother denied her formal education but her father (and herself) tried to bring her closer to culture, science and literature

Born

August 30, 1797 in London, England

Died

(from a brain tumor)
 February 1, 1851 in London, England

Frankenstein (or the modern Prometheus)

Her first novel published in 1818 and turned into a universal myth tells the story of a creature created by a student from human corpses

"I saw (with my eyes closed but very clearly in my mind) I saw the pale student of ungodly sciences, prostrating himself next to the spawn he had created. I had the horrible vision of a creature, the ghost of a lying man; later, by the work of a powerful machine, I saw how that body began to show signs of life and I saw it stir restlessly, almost alive"

Mary Shelley

ORIGIN OF THE NOVEL

The British poet Lord Byron made a bet with a group of writers to create a horror story Mary based one of her nightmares and the experiments of the Italian physicist Luigi Galvani

THE STORY

Victor Frankenstein, a young scientist who creates an intelligent creature in an unorthodox science experiment. But his success will be his sentence, in response to the rejection by everyone towards the creature, the creature decides to quench his thirst for revenge towards his creator and towards what he loves, turning everything around him into death. The monster, sick with loneliness, requests a partner from his creator in exchange for disappearing forever, but Victor refuses to do so, causing the only way out towards peace and rest is the end of one of the two.

It is steeped in elements of the Gothic novel and the Romantic movement, but can be considered the first true science fiction story.

DESCRIPTION OF FRANKENSTEIN

He was a humanoid creature of enormous stature, his skin was yellowish and parchment, his black hair, loose and abundant, his teeth were pearl white and contrasted horribly with watery eyes that seemed almost the same color as the whitish sockets. That lodged and stretched black lips.

He was quite an intelligent being, also sensitive and emotional, he longed for company and affection; his only goal was to live with another being endowed with feelings. He was very eloquent and articulate, admired beauty, had peaceful leanings, liked to read, and fed on roots, berries, and nuts found in the field. However, the continuous rejection of him, made him become a lonely, bitter and vengeful being, despite that, he is continually tormented by his remorse.

CURRENTLY

The novel continues as a cultural reference that has inspired movies, characters and even songs

HORROR.

MARY SHELLY

Her life dedicated to horror.

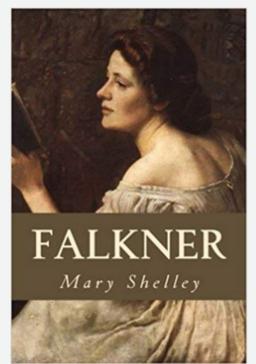

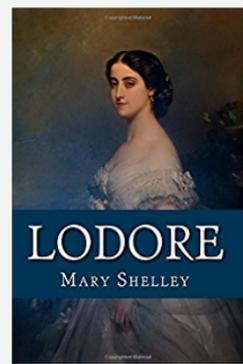

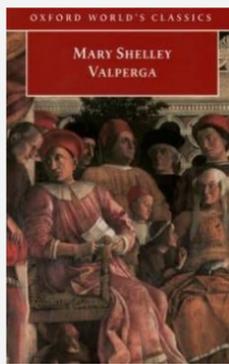

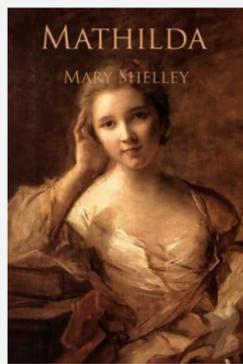

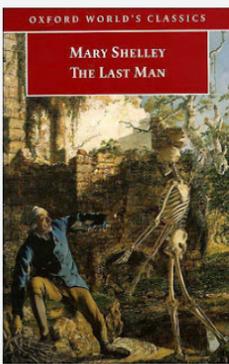

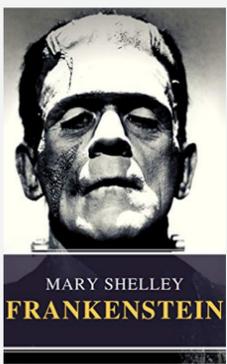

The life of this author.

Mary was born in 1797 and she died in 1851. She was a writer, playwright, essayist and British biographer. She was recognized for being the author of the gothic novel Frankenstein, leaning on his experiences with his couple Percy Bysshe.

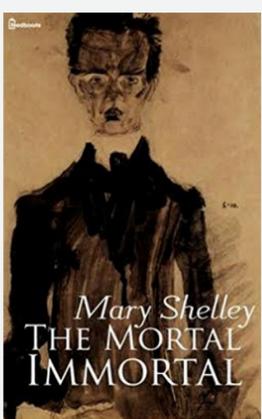

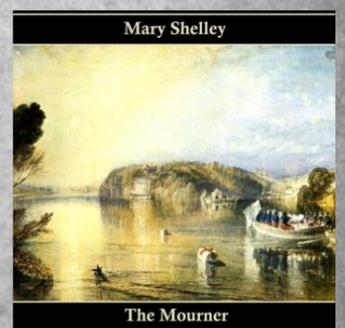

Her most important books.

- Frankenstein (Frankenstein, or the Modern Prometheus) (1818)
- The Last Man (1826)
- Mathilda (1819-1820)
- Valperga (1823)
- The fortunes of Perkin Warbeck: a romance (1830)
- Lodore (1835)
- Falkner (1837)

The terror in her books.

The mourner. This book is about a young man named Neville and a young woman named Ellen. Covers the issues of isolation and identity, this horror story reflects the pain and fault that she experiences after the loss of her husband.

The Mortal Immortal. This is one of the best books that Mary wrote. Covers the issues of immortality and the ethical and moral dilemma of postponing human life. This relates the Winzy's story, who drinks a mysterious potion prepared by his mentor, Cornelio Agrippa. Boats an elixir of immortality, made from alchemy.

The Evil Eye. A Tale. This gothic story relates Dmitri's story, that after the attack of some pirates, his daughter and wife died Zella. It addresses shipwrecks, exotic and mysterious oriental elements, revenge and kidnappings, further exploring the life of the author.

Frankenstein, or the Modern Prometheus. (1816)

This story talks about a lonely creature, created from corpses, obsessed with the supernatural. The book raises moral questions about the limits of science and the work of scientists. Frankenstein is a monster, symbol of his orphanhood, alienation and its lack of meaning and human identity, represents social justice. The character longs to spend his life with another creature similar to him, he is very intelligent despite his appearance he is very sensitive and emotional, suffers from many rejections for his appearance and makes him a lonely being, vengeful and bitter but from time to time he feels remorse for his actions which makes him different from other monsters.
